During the meeting, it was discussed and agreed on the following:

- Security situation:

- Mohammed Kalloub:

- There have been some changes to the security situation in the yellow zones. Military vehicles have entered the area, and new markers have been placed to expand the no-go zone. This is intended to put pressure on the negotiations to disarm the de facto government.

- Humanitarian work continues to face daily challenges when it comes to entering goods and essential operational supplies, such as fuel, due to the recent closure of border crossings. In addition, the prices of spare parts and motor oil have risen, making them unaffordable — if they are even available on the market. Samar reported that UNOPS had sent more specified survey to assess the actual needs of the institutions, including the type of engine oil required. We also included rental cars in our request to ensure the continued implementation of our activities.
- Regarding the daily movement of people entering and exiting through the Rafah crossing, 100 people are permitted to exit with the coordination of the World Health Organization. People are also permitted to enter Gaza with the coordination of the Egyptian Embassy and the submission of lists, subject to Israeli approval.
- Yasser Husni asked about the expected protest on 26 June 2026 and the potential security threat it poses. Mohammed Kalloub noted that calls against the de facto government are being made under the banner of 'Revolution Against Injustice'; the security situation will be assessed and recommendations formulated accordingly. Ghada emphasized the need to share these recommendations and obtain approval for any decisions first, as well as discussing them with concerned people at the National Office before proceeding.
- UNICEF project:
 - Wesal: The necessary medical examinations are being conducted for the children who were recently admitted, and their health is being monitored.
 - A refresher training session for mothers is also being held, including a session on PSEA led by Maysara, as well as sessions led by the psychosocial team on other topics.
- Emergency Projects:
 - Bilal raised the issue of extending the DRA project. Potential interventions during the extension period were then discussed.
 - The distribution of the 96 food packages planned under the Kinship Care intervention is expected to be completed by the end of this week. Coordination with Yousef Al Safadi is underway to send the required text messages to the kinship care beneficiaries.
 - Education: Identify end-of-year needs, including the relocation of the initial learning space and transportation of children, which will be limited to students registered on our rosters. A new age group will also be added. Ghada emphasized the importance of promptly sharing accurate information with colleagues at the national office, so everyone is up to date and on the same page.

- A summer program for students is currently being designed to help them develop their skills during the summer holiday. It includes recreational and extracurricular activities.
- Majd emphasized the need for the employee satisfaction survey to involve discussion of all issues and prior agreement with all parties, particularly Human Resources department. He noted that the issue of teachers requesting a pay rise to cover transportation costs had been raised.
- Ghada pointed out that, whenever a proposal is presented, the budgets and plans must be studied and reviewed. A comprehensive proposal, covering all areas and employees, must then be drafted and submitted to management for approval, after discussion at all levels.
- Mohammed Abu Shamsiya asked about this year's Tawjihi exams. Reem noted that, given the many challenges facing the Ministry of Education in terms of providing suitable venues with internet access that can accommodate the number of students taking the high school graduation exams, it has been decided that the exams will be administered electronically. Students will be responsible for their own participation, just as they were last year. Students are turning to internet cafés that provide the necessary service, without direct supervision from the Ministry of Education. Some students near the SOS have requested to be hosted during the exam period due to the available internet access.
